

Managed Document Review

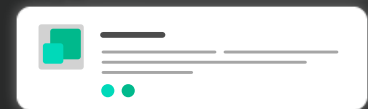

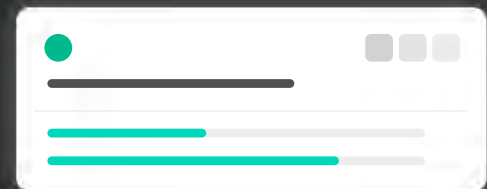

Lower costs, faster insights.

When litigation settles before trial, discovery accounts for up to 70% of the case budget. Document review is the biggest contributing cost, and as a litigator-led firm, we know this can cause heartburn at best, and even tension in the attorney-client relationship.

We can recommend appropriate software and workflows based upon factors including case budget, production deadlines, data types, and more. If you have questions about the alphabet soup of acronyms like TAR (technology assisted review) or CAL (continuous active learning), we can explain what the technology is, how it works, and whether it's appropriate for your case.

Our platform-agnostic reviewers have completed projects in Relativity, RelativityOne, Reveal, Everlaw, Logikcull, DISCO, iCONNECT, IPRO, and more, so even if your data is not hosted in our RelativityOne or Reveal environments, we can plug in and uncover the documents that need your attention.

To protect privilege and ensure a sophisticated understanding of the matter at hand, Proteus engages only US-based and licensed attorneys - we do not outsource or offshore. Further, you will not be insulated from our team during the review. We utilize collaboration software to ensure questions are surfaced, answered, and documented to provide you a defensible record of decisions.

We were founded to help litigators and corporate clients receive a defensible, affordable eDiscovery work product. We can help you, too.
